Coby boy wins two gold medals at Ont. Games for Disabled

Benny Belair of Coboconk placed first in two events at the 1979 Ontario Games for the Disabled, held at Carlton University in Ottawa last week. Benny finished first in the Electric Open Slalom competition and the 60 metre race.

12 year old Benny "worked very hard" to win the slalom event which features an obstacle course marked out with poles that contestants have to navigate in their wheelchairs, said his foster mother, Margret Suckling.

The boy is a quadriplegic who also suffers from a loss of speech. Quadriplegic means without the use of arms and lacking in muscle coordination.

"You can just imagine what a feat it was for Benny to win that competition," said Mrs. Suckling. Benny is a new addition to this area and to the family, this being his first year outside an institution.

Benny is just a super intelligent little guy, said foster brother 19 year old Chris Suckling who was responsible for Benny joining their family.

Chris met Benny, who suffers from cerebral palsy at a camp three years ago, for handicapped children where Chris worked. After a year Benny was spending holidays with the Suckling family and then in another year he was home on the weekends. The Sucklings took Benny in last year.

Benny still needs constant supervision since he can't speak and if he ever got in trouble he could not cry out. But it is a responsibility Chris willingly takes up, according to his mother.

Chris recently received an award from the Five Counties Children's Centre in Peterborough for his work with handicapped children.

More Americans this season area operators report

With the gas shortage hitting the American economy harder by the day, the effects on the individual motorist and consequently, the Canadian tourist trade, could be devastating. Areas such as Niagara Falls have undergone a drop of 30-40% in American tourism, but a check with local parks and resorts indicate an opposite trend in this area. In most cases, the number of American tourists are up.

Emily Provincial Park officials report it had about 30 American visitors over the long weekend which is slightly up from last year. Balsam Lake park attendants say they experienced the opposite, with only eight American tourists, a figure that is considerably lower than last year.

In the private sector, most resorts are meeting with an increase in visitors from south of the border. Elephant Lake lodge states that 80% of their clientele are Americans. A considerable increase over previous years. The proprietors explain that many of their customers telephone before coming up. Letters were also written to guests who have stayed there before, explaining that there is no gas shortage in Canada, "all you have to do is reach the border."

Royal Motel Resort on Hwy. 35 report their trade is slightly up, but they expected a lot more American visitors, what with the American dollar at a premium. Pinestone Inn was one of the few resorts who have experienced a decline. They say that some of their American cancellations could be attributed to the gas shortage.

Temporary bridge is built to get cottagers out

Over 40 residents and cottagers, stranded in the Longford Reserve since last Tuesday, were able to cross the Black River for the first time, Monday night, July 9th. They had been caught at their residences when the Peterson Bridge collapsed under the weight of a fully-loaded lumber truck.

In a concerted effort to reunite the Longford residents with the road to Vankoughnet, the Bracebridge public works committee met Wednesday, July 4th, and agreed to take immediate action to have a temporary wooden bridge built downstream from the collapsed bridge. The contract was awarded to Fowler Construction and by Thursday, work was already underway on getting a new bridge built.

Councillor Jim Boyes, who represents Oakley Ward where the Peterson Bridge is located and is an employee of Fowler Construction, was on hand to personally oversee the job. In an interview on Monday afternoon at the site, Mr. Boyes spoke of the cooperation put forth by everyone involved in the project. Workmen and equipment were taken from other jobs to get the project completed quickly. According to bystanders, workmen were on the job early in the morning and worked until late at night. They also worked Saturday morning.

In particular, Mr. Boyes noted the effort of A. Thompson and Sons, of Clear Lake Sawmill. According to Mr. Boyes, the company shut down its operation to enable the cutting of the custom timbers required for the temporary bridge. The timbers were ordered at noon on Thursday and were delivered by 5 p.m. the same day.

The temporary bridge located at the Jumbo Chute includes a rock filled cribbing that is fastened to the river's bedrock by one inch steel dowels and poured concrete.

Although a new permanent bridge is expected to be completed by late October, the temporary one has been constructed so it will withstand spring flooding on the river. Mr. Boyes said it was decided to build the bridge so that the spring flood, which can raise the water level by as much as ten feet, would not wash it away. If spring ice threatens the bridge, it will be attached to the shore by cables, he stated.

Although Mr. Boyes felt the temporary bridge "should be good for 60 tons," it will be posted for five tons. The town wants to keep heavy trucks off it until a new permanent bridge is completed he stated. Bracebridge public works superintendent Hans Muntz is already working on plans for a replacement bridge, to cost between $60-70,000 and Mr. Boyes estimated the cost of building the temporary bridge at between $6-8,000.

Ontario fisheries program gets funds for go ahead

A major expansion of the fisheries management program in Ontario is to begin immediately, Natural Resources Minister James A. C. Auld announced today.

He said $2 million had been earmarked for this fiscal year to begin implementation of the Strategic Planning for Ontario Fisheries program, widely known as SPOF.

"Fisheries management is complex in our province because we have 250,000 lakes, thousands of miles of streams and 34,000 square miles of the Great Lakes to manage," the minister said.

"We hope, when SPOF is in place, to preserve our magnificent fisheries in Northern Ontario as well as restore where possible those fisheries which have been degraded in the south."

The SPOF fisheries management program has a multi-year schedule. During the next few years, the province's fish restocking capability is to be doubled, and the number of lake and stream rehabilitation projects are to be increased.

A province-wide fisheries management information network linked by a computerized information delivery system is to be put in place. This data flow will allow MNR fisheries managers to respond quickly to problems before crisis levels are reached.

"This boost will allow a start on additional restocking capabilities, the acceleration of the fisheries management information system and the completion of some rehabilitation projects."

"An important part of SPOF will be a new public information program and greater liaison with the interested public."

"SPOF is a well thought-out plan and with its implementation, Ontario will be placed in the forefront of modern fisheries management," the minister said.

MINDEN — A Young Canada Works grant has made the erecting of change rooms at Rotary Park a reality. The Rotary Club received a grant from the government for $3,700 towards the project. This money will go to labour costs of the three area students employed to build the structure, left to right Casey Cox, Lori Hummell and Scott Arbuthnot. The club is picking up the tab for the materials estimated at between $2-2500 with a mid August completion date. The change room structure is 14x28 and will have two 12x14' rooms inside. Rotary's Clayton Hummell is the foreman of the project and is extremely happy with the job being done by the three 16 year old Minden boys.

Coho stocking program to continue despite possible virus at Wiarton

Because a viral disease may be present in the 250,000 coho salmon fingerlings at the Wiarton fish hatchery, the Ministry of Natural Resources is planning special action to continue its salmon stocking program in Lake Ontario.

The virus—infectious pancreatic necrosis (IPN)—is harmless to humans. It is primarily a virus of cold-water fish.

Ministry fisheries biologists are looking for a suitable location to set up a temporary rearing facility, said Fisheries Branch Director Ken Loftus. They must determine if water flow and quality are suitable and determine the right type of fish rearing tank to use.

If such facilities cannot be set up, the ministry may be forced to stock these fish now instead of next spring, Mr. Loftus said. The only other alternative would be to destroy them.

The six-month-old coho, which measure up to eight cm (three inches) in length, are usually moved at this time every year from Wiarton, 25 kilometres north-west of Owen Sound, when Georgian Bay waters that feed the facility begin to warm up.

The fish are normally put in the Chatsworth hatchery substation which is fed by colder waters, kept there until early the following year, when stocked in several streams flowing into Lake Ontario.

But that move is out this year because of the possible presence of IPN, said Mr. Loftus.

"The ministry does not want to endanger other stocks of fish at Chatsworth or any other provincial hatcheries.

"Although we have not found IPN in the coho at Wiarton, the virus was found in adult salmon from which eggs were collected last fall," he said.

According to Mr. Loftus, the virus can be transmitted in the egg to the next generation of salmon. The coho have experienced significant mortality this spring at Wiarton, adding to the suspicion that the virus is present, he said.

Mr. Loftus said the ministry has been expecting the virus to turn up for some time now because it is present in Lake Ontario and several tributaries and has infected hatcheries in American states bordering on the lake.

Ironically, IPN is usually more of a danger to other species of fish than salmon.

For example, brook trout often suffer major mortalities if they contract the disease under hatchery culture conditions, said Mr. Loftus. Those that survive the virus become carriers of IPN and can spread the disease to other fish.

Little is known about the effect of the virus on wild fish, he said. However, several fish pathologists have stated publicly there is no scientific support in the view that the virus does not cause a significant disease problem in wild fish.

"Wild fish of several species could become infected with IPN," Mr. Loftus said. "Therefore, in considering our options—setting up a temporary facility or stocking the coho now—we will consider only streams and rivers where the virus is already known to be present.

"We're considering a number of sites and should be able to work out a solution within a couple of weeks."

"We plan to continue our coho program in Lake Ontario tributaries according to our long-range plan for re-habilitation," he said. "That is, to continue salmon stocking until a worthwhile fishery is established with rainbow and lake trout."

The ministry is also considering the stocking of brown trout in Lake Ontario, he said.

Mr. Loftus said a stock of lake trout at Wiarton that were exposed to the virus will be destroyed so IPN will not be introduced to Lake Simcoe.

This stock can be replaced by 50,000 Lake Simcoe trout from Chatsworth hatchery that have never been exposed to the virus, he said.

With native species the ministry can pick and choose water bodies from which to take adults for eggs, avoiding those areas where the presence of IPN is known. Fisheries staff have less choice when going after coho salmon spawn.

He said Ontario has been more successful than others in keeping down serious disease problems in its hatcheries. In the past, five hatcheries have been closed temporarily and disinfected for bacterial kidney disease (BKD) and IPN, despite significant costs and short-term reductions in stocking programs.

New film explains moose management

A 20-minute film that explains Ontario's new moose management program and other details of the province's moose herds is now available from district offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources for viewing by interested groups.

"Monarch of the North," produced by the ministry's wildlife branch, illustrates some aspects of the moose program such as aerial surveys and the management of forests to improve habitat.

The film also deals with food and habitat requirements of moose, recreational value, distribution, management problems, and solutions proposed by Ontario's moose managers.

New Minister Talks Tough

By W. Roger Worth

Canada's new Minister of State for Small Business and Industry is just getting settled in his new Ottawa office but he's already taken a swipe at some of the country's corporate giants.

In a maiden speech following his cabinet appointment, Ronald Huntington expressed strong feelings about corporate concentration in the form of conglomerates.

In particular, he knocked the massive companies that "cover a wide and diversified interlocking of corporate activities."

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

"Such giants can, and do, speed up the massing of capital into the hands of a few people, and that power can threaten the survival of our free enterprise, incentive oriented society," he said.

Harsh words indeed, but Huntington should know what he's talking about.

As a small businessman in British Columbia before entering politics, Huntington founded two successful enterprises, one with sales of more than $10 million per year.

In addition, as a Conservative back bench, he was responsible for the party's position regarding changes in Canada's competition policy, presently the weakest in the industrialized world.

The new minister points out that he's not simply against "bigness."

"Bigness to create economy of scale . . . within a specific activity of production, manufacture, or service, is a fact of life, and to do so is in the public interest," Huntington emphasizes.

He believes such activities are necessary if Canadian companies are to withstand the rigors of international competition.

The concern lies with those firms that seek power for the sake of power.

"It seems to me that every time we allow a particular group to have power, you can be certain it will find ways of multiplying in order to gain more power," he says.

The challenge, according to Huntington, is to find new ways to restore the basic incentive aspects of the small business world before the system itself is destroyed.

"I give that objective a very high priority," he adds.

Small business, it seems, has a concerned voice in the corridors of power, a minister prepared to fight for competition legislation that really counts.

Rick Lamb stars in 3-2 victory over Lindsay Merchants

MINDEN — Rick Lamb is a newcomer to the Merchant ball team this year and the players are sure glad he decided to join. On Thursday evening in Lindsay, Minden was about to take on the Merchants for the second time in 24 hours after losing to them Wednesday 3-1.

Lamb was the talk of the town as he got the fans oohing and aahing in the first inning, when he plucked a ball out of the air that was on any ordinary occasion, a home run. The ball had already gone over the fence in centre field but somehow Rick got the tip of his glove on it.

Then in the seventh inning a Lindsay batter trying to score from second base was cut down at the plate by a perfect throw from Lamb to catcher Kirk

Hewitt. Then again in the bottom of the ninth, Lamb threw out a runner trying to advance from first to second on a fly ball. Not a bad evening for a young man who walked onto the field a few weeks back asking if there was room on the team for him.

Minden opened the scoring in the first when Hewitt was hit by a pitch and then scored on a single and two base errors by Lindsay. They upped the score to 2-0 in the fourth on Hartwick's single, a stolen base and a run scoring single by Barry Shaw. Lindsay got one back in each of the 4th and 6th innings to send the game into extra innings. However, Minden was not to be denied. In the top of the 9th Brian Shaw tripled, Bernie Nicholls was intentionally walked to get at Rick Lamb who drove the first pitch to left field scoring Shaw from third to give Minden the win.

LINDSAY MERCHANTS WIN 3-1

On Wednesday evening July 11, the Lindsay Merchants made their final league appearance in Minden and went home with a well deserved 3-1 victory. They opened up a three run lead in the top of the first inning and Minden never caught up.

Dainard led off the game for Lindsay doubling to left down the line. He then scored one out later when a hard grounder by Tamblyn to shortstop Barry Shaw was bobbled. L. Alldred then stepped to the plate and smacked losing pitcher Jack Snell's first pitch deep over the centre field fence.

Minden got their lone run in the bottom of the first inning, when Rick Hartwick, Barry Shaw and Dave Dollo all singled.

Winning pitcher was Dale Stinson, allowing just one run on seven hits, walked none and struck out six. Snell (6-7) gave up three runs on seven hits, walked two and fanned two.

On Sports

BY JOHN DALTON

This happened about 40 years ago at an All-Star baseball game.

Kid fastballer Bob Feller, the American League hurler, was blazing his pitches by the National League's top batters.

At that time, Feller, who pitched for Cleveland, was not very well known to hitters in the National League. Rapid Robert left most of them baffled.

"You guys hit against this all the time?" asked an NL veteran?

Replied his AL counterpart: "No. Not often."

Today Feller, 60, counts his All-Star pitching experiences among some of his top baseball memories. For good reason. In a career total of 12 and one-third innings of All-Star pitching he allowed only one run.

"You want to do your best, it's an individual thing," explains Feller, who helped Gillette to drum up votes this season for the 50th All-Star game. It's the 10th season that the razor firm has underwritten the fan ballot-ing.

Talking about his All-Star successes, Feller says: "Sure, I was a fast ball pitcher. But people forget I had a hell of a good curve ball, too."

In 1938, Feller, at age 18, became the youngest to be selected to an All-Star team. He sat on the bench for that game, though.

Next season, Joe McCarthy, managing the 1939 AL team, summoned Feller from the bullpen in the sixth inning of the contest at Yankee Stadium. The AL led 3-1. But the NL had the bases loaded with one out. With one pitch, Feller got Arky Vaughan to hit into an inning-ending double play. Then Feller shutout the National League on one hit over the final three innings to help the AL win.

"I think the pitcher has an advantage," suggests Feller about working against an All-Star lineup. "He has a choice of doing what he wants to do."

Feller says he always played hard in those summer classics.

"I think it's a great exhibition, a great show," notes Feller. "There's nothing wrong with creating this kind of interest in baseball."

A Hall of Famer, Feller was voted "Greatest Living Right-handed Pitcher" during baseball's 1969 centennial. He pitched for 17 years, leading the AL in season victories six times and strikeouts seven times. He won 20 games six times and tossed three no-hitters. His career record: 266-162.

Has baseball changed much since Feller was making the All-Star team?

"We used to get paid on performance," says Feller. "Now you're getting paid on your potential. That's what all these big money contracts are about."

He says more attention was paid to fundamentals in the old days, too.

Yet the ex-Indians ace remains enthusiastic about the game. Even if it is a while since he became the youngest (age 17) regular starting pitcher ever.

The coldest and windiest continent on earth is Antarctica. The world record of minus 126.9 degrees was recorded there.

RAILS END STATION GALLERY

"Rails End" Station Gallery draws 300 to official opening

HALIBURTON — The long awaited opening of the "Rails End" Station Gallery took place on Saturday afternoon at 2 pm with more than 300 in attendance.

Master of Ceremonies for the opening was Mr. Don Popple, of Haliburton and the official ribbon-cutting was handled by Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey and Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins.

Some of the many activities that took place were an antique car parade, horse and buggy rides, the Haliburton Highland band performed, a demonstration of a large steam train model, a railway film and flutists Melissa Stevens and Company.

There were many special guests at the opening as well, including the president of Sir Sanford Fleming College, members of the Arts Council in Peterborough, government representatives from Wintario and members of many of the surrounding art galleries.

Mr. Harold Kahman, one of the team of people who brought the Rails End idea to Haliburton, along with Bob Bailey and Keith Wagland gave a historical speech on the railway in the village.

The Haliburton station was one of the oldest railway buildings in the country and has now been restored as the new home of the Guild of Fine Arts. It was built in 1878 by the Victoria Railway Company and has the special historical significance of being the terminal of what may have been the only railway to have originated in a colonization scheme.

The baggage room is now an art gallery, large and well lighted, for the display of traveling shows, and is a place to exhibit the work of the local craftspeople. There is a small office, a workroom where the station master used to sell tickets and the old waiting room can be used for small meetings or displays. All of the many activities which the Guild sponsors every year will be more easily available and more enjoyable for all in the new surroundings.

The Gallery will be open from now on from Tuesday to Saturday at 10 am until 4 p.m.

Record entries for 3rd Hal. Fiddle and Step dance contest

HALIBURTON — The 3rd annual Haliburton Fiddle and Step dance contest held at the curling rink over the weekend, drew a record 92 entries from as far away as Sarnia, Ontario and Ladysmith, Quebec.

Another first for the local contest was four performances instead of three as in the first two years, plus the Frank Leahy Band Dance held at the conclusion of the contest.

Harold Bannon, MC of the show said that the Friday afternoon performance was about as good as last year attendance wise, however, the evening and Saturday afternoon shows were down due mainly to the intense heat that hit the county this past week. He said that the evening show was very good, as was the attendance at the dance.

"I would like to commend all the chairmen on their excellent job of helping with the various activities for the two day contest, they were all just great."

The door prize of $100 was won at the dance by Anita Dalton of Mississauga, while the 50-50 draw winner was Haliburton's own Cecil Winters.

The following are contest winner this year:

Official opening of new park announced

Awenda — Ontario's 128th and newest provincial park — on Georgian Bay, 11 kilometres northwest of Penetanguishene, will be officially opened July 4, Natural Resources Minister James A. C. Auld announced today.

The 22-square kilometre natural environment park features 150 campsites in groves of maple and oak, three kilometres of beach backed by the 60-metre high Nipissing Bluff and 17 provincially-significant archaeological sites, including two Indian villages.

Although the natural environment park emphasis is toward large campsites and footpaths instead of paved roads, the three camping areas each have a central comfort station with showers and laundry facilities.

Mr. Auld said another 150 campsites will be developed in the future, plus group camping and picnic areas, a winter and summer trail system and displays.

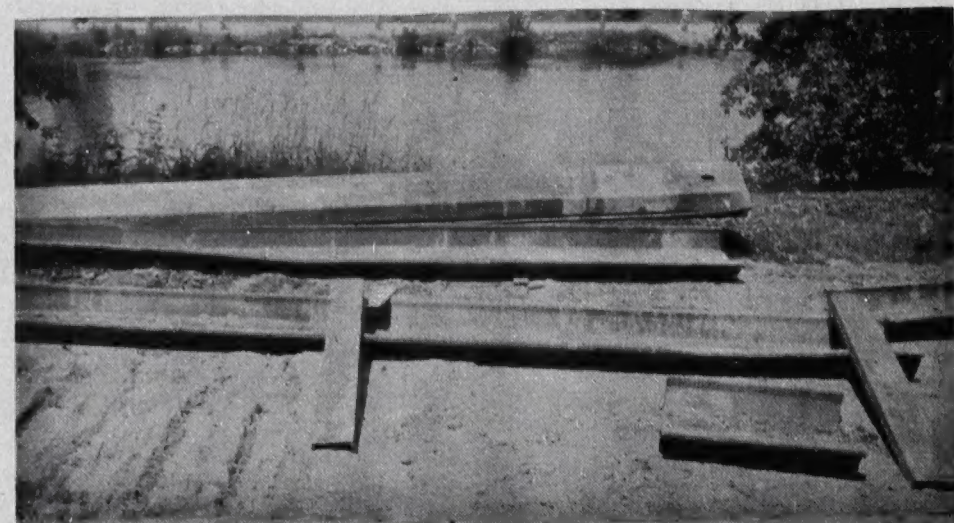

At least four different cultures inhabited the Awenda area, including the Hurons, and provincial archaeologists have worked at several digs piecing together the lifestyles of the groups.

"We expect Awenda will be extremely popular because of the setting and history there, but also because of popular tourist attractions nearby like Ste. Marie."

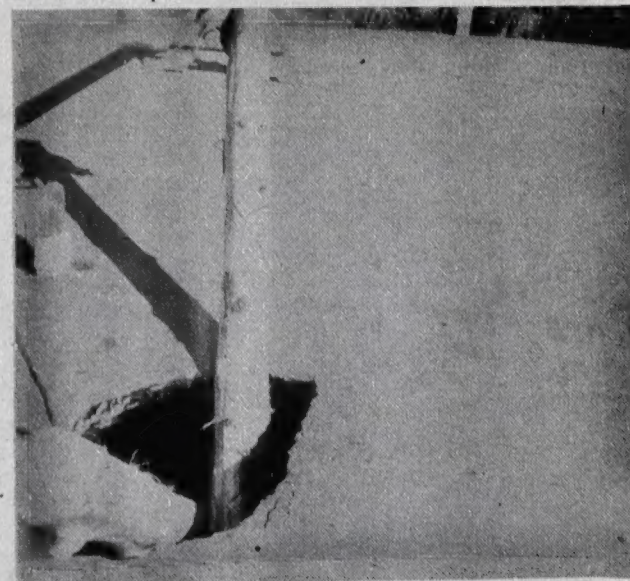

Among the Hurons, the Penetanguishene naval and military establishments, the Martyrs Shrine and the Wye Marsh Wildlife Centre," said Mr. Auld.

Awenda, Huron for "the word", was developed under the Agricultural Rural Development Act (ARDA) with costs shared equally by the federal and provincial governments.

Also present at the official opening will be Simcoe MPP George Taylor, Simcoe North MP Douglas Lewis, ARDA representatives, Tiny Township Reeve Morris Dar-

Recently, the bridge on South Water Street had a two foot square hole cave in. The Township of Anson, Hindon and Minden road crew fixed the cave-in temporarily until last week when the bridge was dug out on both sides and lengths of steel plates installed to reduce the washout under it that caused the original cave in. Shown above, Wayne Colman digs the trenches for the installation of the plates to erase any further cave ins like the one shown in the lower photo.
